CN Strike Forces Further Downtime at Canfor Sawmills

February 20, 2007 - Vancouver, B.C. - Canfor Corporation (TSX: CFP) announced today that it will be taking production downtime at its Mackenzie sawmill three production days earlier than the Company announced last week beginning February 21st coupled with additional curtailments at other British Columbia mills in Vavenby, Houston and at its Kyahwood remanufacturing joint venture located in Moricetown.

The additional three days of downtime at Mackenzie, the week of downtime at both Houston and Vavenby and the three days at Kyahwood represent approximately 20 million board feet of additional production curtailment Canfor has had to take as a result of the strike.

"The timing of the strike places an additional burden on our operations and is having a very negative impact on our company," said Jim Shepherd, President and CEO. "Over 1,300 of our employees across British Columbia are being affected by this strike not to mention other communities which also depend on reliable rail service," said Shepherd. "The magnitude of this strike warrants immediate action by the federal government to bring about a resolution," he concluded.
